RE: AngioScreen

I am pleased to offer comment regarding Angiology Corporation of America's integrated vascular screening: AngioScreen. Recently our office sponsored screening for all our attorneys and employees. We were well pleased with the professional staff that spent 3 full days in our offices conducting the screening and the follow up counseling.

AngioScreen personnel shared our concern for HIPPA rights and privacy of our employees. Individual information is known only to the employee. Even though an employer sponsored wellness benefit, we do not have information relating to any medical information.

Prior to the screening dates, we were provided marketing and scheduling information so each participant knew in advance the procedure and an understanding of test results.

The firm will definitely reschedule AngioScreen to return next year because of the very personal and professional experience we enjoyed.
